'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

We absolutely refuse to accept any more suggestions as to what to do with used safety razor blades.

* * * *

The other day we had a brain storm and outlined a scheme that has been booed, cheered, razzed and praised.

* * * *

And something like 2,765,999½ suggestions have been telephones, wired, called or told to us by well wishers.

* * * *

This is enough—let there be no more . . . let it suffice.

* * * *

We will now bring forth another idea for some of our inventors to work upon:

* * * *

How about building a wall bed that a man can "make" without mussing up the bed clothes?

* * * *

The main requisite of making a wall bed is a cool temper, undaunted courage and a vocabulary.

* * * *

First one spreads the two sheets very nicely upon the bed . . . being careful that the big hem is at the top. Otherwise you are told things by the other half of the family.

* * * *

Then the sheets are carefully tucked in under the mattress at the bottom of the bed.

* * * *

This is done to your satisfaction. As you turn to pick up the other covers, however, you find that in some unknown manner the sheets have become wrinkled and are uneven.

* * * *

Nothing to do now, but to re-arrange the sheets until you have them to your own satisfaction. This takes from one to two hours.

* * * *

Then you put on the covers, being careful to have them even and unwrinkled.

* * * *

Next the bed spread is placed on top and carefully spread over the covers. You then tuck the whole bunch under the bottom of the mattress.

* * * *

Now comes the fun: tucking in around the sides. You get one side arranged perfectly. You then go to the next side, only to find that this side is too short to be tucked under.

* * * *

You then say words and remake the bed again. A half hour later you have everything perfectly arranged, with the sides and ends tucked in nicely.

* * * *

Then you place the pillows on the bed, pull up the clamp and clamp down the pillows and the mattress.

* * * *

You dust off your hands, breathe a sigh of relief, pick up the end of the bed, fold the legs under and push the bed up. Just then the mattress, covers and all fall down into a lump at the foot of the bed.

* * * *

Then is the time when a man should be alone with his thoughts. Kicking the bed won't do any good. Cussing might help . . . but not much.

* * * *

About this time the wife enters, sees the bed, gives a shriek and starts to work. In two minutes she has the bed made properly and folded without an accident.

Harbor Dredging Discussed By C. C.

Dredging the inner harbor channel deeper and wider for the better accomodation of large vessels was proposed yesterday by the Richmond Chamber of Commerce when the directors authorized the harbor committee of the city to open negotiations with the government to this end.

The plan is to provide a channel the full 550 feet wide to a depth of at least 28 feet, which it is estimated will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

Harbor interests reported that large steamers are objecting to turning in front of the terminal and that they do not desire to use the turning basin which is provided nearby. The condition results in inconvenience to steamers. Inasmuch as the largest companies are now sending their vessels to Richmond the chamber, according to P. M. Sanford, president, felt that every effort should be made to create the most satisfactory conditions in the harbor.

The harbor committee also recommended that steps be taken to cause the federal authorities to provide proper lighting for the channels leading to the inner and outer harbors. A conference will be arranged with the leading steamship executives to study the best methods of marking, after which blue prints and charts will be prepared for submission to the superintendent of lighthouses in San Francisco.

San Francisco C. C. Pays Visit To City

Richmond's picture of progress was painted in bright colors for a group of San Francisco industrialists who toured the city yesterday under the guidance of Chahmber of Commerce directors and local business leaders.

Piloted by C. A. Flemming, chairman of the industrial committee of the San Francisco chamber, the group spent yesterday touring Contra Costa county, visiting among other outstanding things the site of the new Shell chemical plant near Pittsburg.

The tour ended at Richmond where the visitors were met at the Chamber of Commerce by P. M. Sanford, president of the chamber, Fred D. Parr and others, and taken on a tour of the interesting spots in Richmond.

Principal attention was given to the inner harbor, scene of the greatest recent developments. Here the San Francisco leaders viewed the new Par-Richmond terminal, classified as one of the outstanding terminal facilities of the bay region; the new Filice and Perrelli cannery, now concluding its first season's activity in this city; and the work on the construction of the new Ford plant, where $5,000,000 will be invested between now and next June.

The outer harbor was visited at the end of the tour to permit the visitors to take the ferry back to San Francisco. A view was gained of the Parr-Richmond terminal at that point, and of the MacMillan oil developments there, as well as the Southern Pacific ferry terminal and the Santa Fe terminal.

WOMAN DIES IN ACCIDENT

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Appleby, 78, of 401 Kearney street, El Cerrito, who died at the Humboldt hospital yesterday after being struck by a car driven by Vincent Soto, 70, of Concord, are pending in the hands of Wilson and Kratzer.

According to police reports, Soto's car struck Mrs. Appleby as she was crossing San Pablo avenue at Fairmont in El Cerrito. Police say Soto was driving at a moderate speed, and apparently Mrs. Appleby did not see the approaching vehicle.

Phil A. Lee, El Cerrito service station operator, took the woman to the Humboldt hospital where she passed away.

Deceased was a native of England. She has resided in California 23 years, and in El Cerrito 12 years.

She is survived by a husband, Robert O. Appleby, and a daughter Mrs. Bernice A. Woodruff of El Cerrito. Two sons, Robert of Elmhurst and Ernest of San Francisco are also left to mourn her death.

Man Hunted In Death Of Widow

OAKLAND, Oct. 8.—UP—Police tonight sought a man known to them only by his first name "Leo" for questioning about the mysterious shooting that caused the death of Mrs. Frances Chavez, 25, attractive widow, here Monday night.

The belief was held by authorities that "Leo" was the man who was with Mrs. Chavez and her room-mate, Mrs. Rose Vierra, who is held as a material witness, when the shot was fired. Mrs. Vierra claims that Mrs. Chavez killed herself.

SHIPS, MEN ARE TO BE REDUCED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—UP—Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams announced today a complete reorganization of the United States fleet and naval district craft in the interests of economy and national defense.

The new plan, ordered by the new chief of naval operations, Admiral William V. Pratt, provides the United States with a more efficient war-time navy, at the same time conforming to President Hoover's repeated request for economy in governmen. expenditures, naval officers said today.

About 4,800 men will be removed from the navy payroll as a result of the new program effecting an economy in personnel expenditures of $1,579,000 this fiscal year and $3,428,949 next fiscal year. Reduction will be accomplished by cutting monthly recruiting from 400 to 200.

The reorganization pares 18 destroyers, two cruisers and 25 submarines, totaling 120,000 tons, from the commissioned list of the navy and lays the groundwork upon which the eventual London naval treaty fleet will be built. It is the most drastic revision of the navy since 1919 when the U. S. fleet was divided into two parts.

Outstanding among changes ordered by Pratt were the establishment of a new unit, a training squadron consisting of two battleships and eight destroyers to operate with reduced complements; use of the battleship Utah, retired under the London naval treaty, as a radio-controlled target ship; reduction from six to four in the number of destroyers in each division; reorganization of the air force afloat; consolidation of the mine force and its assignment to the U. S. fleet, and redistribution of submarine divisions.

Aimee Refuses To Take Baby

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—UP—A 7 months old baby girl was abandoned on a doorstep here today with a message that she was to be given to Aimee Semple McPherson if the occupants of the house did not want her.

"Will you please keep my baby?" the note read. "Her name is Gloria Miller. She is a month and three weeks old. If you do not want my baby please turn her over to Aimee McPherson, for that is my religion and tell her to take care of her until I am able to come after her. Thank you."

The note was signed simply "Mrs. Miller." Angelus Temple workers said they did not know the woman and that the Temple and Mrs. McPherson would be unable to take the child. The baby was turned over to juvenile authorities.

UPRISING IS PLANNED BY SOVIETS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8. —UP—Arms have been brought into the United States by the Chekas, military organization of communist Russia, with a view to future seizure of public buildings, communication systems and military structures, the congressional committee of investigation was told here today.

Le Roy S. Smith, director of the speaker's bureau of the better American federation, which conducted a communist inveseigation, claimed that 20,000 arms had been imported by the militarist organization. In reply to a question by Hamilton Fish Jr., New York, chairman of the committee he said the source of his information could be revealed in executive session only.

Smith said that the communists of the United States plan a general mobilization in review of forces on November 24, but that there would be nothing militant in the mobilization, explaining that it will be a mere check of forces.

He quoted the declaration of a Russian communist leader, said to have been made at the last meeting of the third internationale in Moscow. The leader was declared to have said to an American delegate: "We have not become less active in the United States: we are just more discreet. It will not be long before you will be aware of that."

Smith said that the reds plan, when they become strong enough in the United States, to seize police departments, city halls, newspapers, telegraph stations, railways, army and navy arsenals and army trucks.

Smith testified the communists conducted a school in Woodland, Wash., and that from eleven honor students from Los Angeles, two, Rose Reuben and Rose Schneiderman, had been selected to be sent to Moscow for a post graduate course.

CALIFORNIA TO MEET SAINTS SATURDAY

BERKELEY, Oct. 8.—Undismayed by defeat at the hands of Washington State last Saturday, the University of California football team today reached the point of most intensive preparation for their major battle next Saturday with St. Mary's college at California Memorial stadium.

The first part of the week saw the Bears recovering from the usual bumps and bruises sustained in the hair-raising encounter with the Cougars last week. Today Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price was expected to scrimmage his varsity team against "Goof" elevens using St. Mary's methods of attack, and for the balance of the week the Bears will undoubtedly taper off in their workouts in order to be in the best possible physical condition to withstand the onslaught of the Galloping Gaels.

Last Saturday's game brought forward a new California star in Ted Beckett, who played a brilliant game at running guard. Captain Carl Handy, who was paired with Beckett, was injured slightly in the latter half of the game, but will be in good condition to meet the Gaels.

Price's plans for his line are pretty well set, as they have been all season, and the regular Bican-Cahn and Thornton-Avery combinations at tackle and end positions, will probably start, with Herman Eickmeyer at center.

In the backfield, however, nothing is settled except that Ed Griffiths will probably be sufficiently recovered from his ankle injury to start at quarter, and "Rusty" Gill will be the fullback choice. Price, evidently dissatisfied with the performance of George Watkins, halfback, has relegated the star punter to the third varsity, together with Ralph Seely, second-string back. Hank Schaldach was the only Bear halfback who was able to gain consistently against the Cougars, and he is being favored to start the game. Schaldach has usually worked with either Bill McCutcheon or Joe Hickingbotham.

California and St. Mary's have been playing football since 1915. The Bears have won all but three of the games played, and last year's contest ended in a scoreless tie.

Key Prepares For Gael Game

To relieve traffic congestion and to expedite the transportation of the 90,000 odd football fans that will attend the California - St. Mary's game on Saturday at the University of California Memorial stadium, special bus service from the south gate of the stadium will be established after the game by the East Bay Motor Coach Lines, it was announced today by J. P. Potter.

"We inaugurated this special bus service for the game last Saturday, and it was successful," Potter says. "During the remainder of the football season when games are played at the stadium the service will be continued.

"Busses are parked at the south exit of the stadium on Prospect street. East bay patrons can immediately board the busses after the game. The service operates along Prospect street to Dwight Way, thence to Telegraph avenue and then into Oakland downtown area. The regular 7 cent fare is in effect and the usual transfer privileges prevail."

Cardinals Defeated In Sixth Game As A's Win Ball Title

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—UP—With a crash of extra base hits heard around the baseball world, the Philadelphia Athletics won their second successive world's series today, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals in the sixth and deciding game, 7 to 1, and winning the series by four games to two.

Backing up the brilliant pitching of George Earnshaw were the resounding wallops to all corners of Shibe Park—including two mighty homers from the bats of Jimmy Dykes and Al Simmons—the Mackmen scored a well earned triumph and left no doubt as to which was the better team.

Earnshaw, allowing the Cardinals but five hits, rose to the heights of pitching greatness and stamped himself one of the best world series pitchers of all time. Until the ninth, the big right hander he'd the Red Birds helpless, and then, when the game was won and the celebration of Connie Mack's fifth world's championship already had begun, a plucky St. Louis team which would not give up until the final out scored its lone run.

Early End

As a ball game, this sixth contest was over before it was fairly under way. The Athletics faced "Wild Bill" Hallahan, who had beaten them in the third game, with confidence and a swift attack which rolled up enough runs to win before he could get them out in the first inning.

After Bishop had popped to Frankie Frisch, the crowd, numbering about 33,000, warmly cheered Jimmy Dykes when he came to bat. Dykes' misplays in St. Louis had put him in a fair way to becoming the "goat" of the series. Thus encouraged, he proved the batting hero of the final game.

Dykes worked a walk and Micky Cochrane drove a long double, whistling down the right field line. George Watkins, St. Louis right fielder, misplayed the ball and was charged with an error, Dykes racing home and Cochrane going to third.

Foxx Walks

Hallahan bore down on Al Simmons and achieved his one successful gesture of the game by striking out the A's clean-up man. But the effort cost "Wild Bill" his control and Jimmy Foxx walked. Up came Bing Miller whose hitting had been disgraceful, and Bing banged the ball into right field, scoring Cochrane with what was to prove the winning run.

The game was decided then and there, with Earnshaw forcing the Red Birds to eat from his able right hand inning after inning, and the Mackmen piling up runs on home runs by Dykes and Simmons and doubles by Dykes and Foxx.

Once more, the Athletics proved that their power lies in their punch as they made only seven hits, all for extra bases, and all but one of them was directly responsible for a run or two. It was the triumph of a ball club which entrusted its fate to two of the greatest pitchers in baseball and to the lethal wallops in the bats of its slugging regulars. Throughout the series, Earnshaw and his sidekick, Lefty Grove, pitched effectively, accounting between them for the four victories which retained the championship for Philadelphia.

Base Hits

Throughout the series, Dykes, Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx coming up in that order were ready with the extra base hits that crushed a game but outclassed the St. Louis club.

Gabby Street played every card he knew of today, to no avail. He shook up his batting order, reducing Jim Bottomley to sixth place. He yanked his pitchers, Hallahan, Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey, to make way for pinch hitters whenever they were due to bat finishing up with Herman Bell in the box for the final inning.

It was off Johnson, who replaced Hallahan in the box in the third, that Dykes and Simmons hit their home runs. Simmons, first man to face Johnson, hit a terrific wallop into the upper left field stands. Dykes, coming up in the next session with Max Bishop on first, lined one into the lower stands to pound in two more runs.

Add Runs

This made the count 5 to 0 and with Earnshaw working easily, cutting the plate with a fast curve, the outcome was admitted by everyone except the Cardinals.

The A's added another run in the fifth, which Jimmy Foxx, whose homer won the fifth game on Monday, opened with a double off Frisch's glove. This was a terrific line drive which nearly tore the Cardinal captain's glove off.

A sacrifice bunt and a sacrifice fly brought Foxx home.

Bell Finishes

The final run of the game came off Lindsey in the sixth. Bishop walked with one out and Dykes drove a long double to left center, Max pulled up at third, although he might have scored in an emergency.

Mickey Cochrane promptly raised a sacrifice fly to Taylor Douhit, and the A's lead-off man easily scored after the catch.

After that, the Athletics didn't make a hit nor get a man to first. Lindsey was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Bell finished the game for the Red Birds.

High Gridders Play Business Team Here Today

Coach Frank Ribbel of the Richmond Union High school grid team will send his second string into battle against the Armstrong Business College eleven this afternoon at the local high school field.

The second string athletes of Richmond High will today receive their first real chance to show their metal in actual combat. All the men to be used in today's game have fought for Richmond this season, but they have not yet had a real test on the gridiron. Several veterans will be sprinkled through the squad to lend strength to the Richmond offense today against the college boys from Berkeley.

Pizzoli and Passone, both sophomores, will start at ends today, while Ferry and Klobas, first year men, will do the tackling jobs. Bob Drexel and Davila will start as guards. Brignone, who has seen plenty of action this year, will be at center.

In the backfield, Jack Stoddard and George Miller, veterans, will handle the halfback positions. Bravin will have his first real chance at fullback, while Boschetti will be starting at quarterback.

The contest is scheduled to start at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon on the local high school gridiron.

CONNIE MACK PLEASED BY VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—UP—A tall, spare man by the name of Cornelius McGillicuddy, known to the trade as Connie Mack, ambled into his office down deep in the stands here late today and shook like a quaking aspen in a cyclone.

Close onto 70 is Connie Mack, but the thrill of the chase still gives him the shivers at times. He walked into his office five minutes after his "boys" had knocked the ears off Gabby Street's Cardinals, and he couldn't for the life of him, control his hands.

He tried putting them in his pants pockets and then he tried his coat pockets. He held them behind his back and he clasped them in his lap, but they shook right on. He sat down in his red leather chair and tried to smile, but it just wouldn't work.

His breath came in short jerks and his straight lips twitched. Frequently he moistened his lips with his tongue. He grabbed hold of the arms of the chair in an effort to still his quivering hands, but they wouldn't be quiet.

"Well, boys, well—well—well—er, wh, well," he said, staring about the room at the mail dozen reporters, "you know how it is, boys, I'm kinda excited. It feels good, boys, it feels good, to win."

Old Connie Mack tried once again to smile.

His extreme seriousness embarrassed him. He thought, probably, that the boys would write him up—tell how he couldn't hold still and couldn't talk.

"This is my day," he started, and then catching himself, "I mean our, this is our fifth world series victory. Boys, dog-gone it, I'm happy. This is my life—this game of baseball. You understand."

He sat and shook and tried to catch his breath for a moment. Then somebody asked him why he put Earnshaw up against the Cards today.

The Connie Mack smile blossomed forth. Here was something for him to take hold of, something that steadied him — the thought of good old George Earnshaw out there pitching his head off all afternoon.

"I picked George for the game today," smiled George's boss, "because George is sort of a big strong fellow. A big strong fellow was what we needed. George sure pitched, now didn't he?" Connie Mack smoothed his gray hair back with his hands and went on talking. Occasionally he groped for words, just couldn't think of the right thing to say.

"That other fellow, I think, that ——" he said. He couldn't think of the other fellow's name to save his neck.

"Hallahan," some one offered.

"Yes, Hallahan," said Mack, "He's a good pitcher. But I think Earnshaw, I think George, is one of the great pitchers of baseball."

The veteran manager praised the Cardinals and Gabby Street with great zest. He said that Street, considering the circumstances, used good sense all through today's game. "He played all his cards and he played them well," he said.

Ice Team At U. C. Practices

BERKELEY, Oct. 8.—The University of California ice hockey team, inter-collegiate champions of the Pacific coast last spring, opened preparations for the 1931 season yesterday afternoon under the direction of Ray Grismer, new coach. The Bears will hold two workouts each week on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Oakland Ice arena, their home rink during the ice hockey season.

Jarheads To Meet Firemen On Saturday

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Having rested over the last week-end the West Coast Army footballers are pointing this week to their struggle with the Los Angeles firemen at Kezar stadium on Saturday. After taking three defeats at the hands of the Olympic Club, Stanford and St. Mary's in order, the soldiers deserved their breathing spell.

Last year the Firemen beat the soldiers in Los Angeles, 12 to 0, and the memory of that defeat is sorely wrankling in the hearts of the Jarheads. This year, with a much improved team, they are determined to wipe out that defeat and return a decisive victory over the fire fighters.

Large Gate Sale Seen At Contest

BERKELEY, Oct. 8.—The University of California and St. Mary's college football teams will probably play to a capacity crowd of approximately 80,000 persons when they meet at California Memorial stadium in the sixteenth annual game between the two institutions.

This prediction was made today by Jack F. MacKenzie, assistant graduate manager of the associated students, despite the fact that the latest check-up by the ASUC ticket department shows that approximately 23,000 seats are still available at public sales agencies in the bay region. MacKenzie believes that a large gate sale the day of the game will boost the attendance to close to the capacity mark.

Hockey Season To End At High Tuesday

The interclass hockey season at Richmond Union High school will come to an end Tuesday afternoon when the finals will be played.

The juniors and seniors are at present leading the race, and it appears as if these classes will meet in the finals next week. These classes have thus far met in two contests. One resulted in a tie and the other in a junior victory.

Following the end of hockey competition among the high school girls, volleyball will assume first importance next week.

Lone Bottle Of Beer Holds Up Justice Court

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8.—UP—The disappearance of a lone bottle of beer stopped the wheels of justice and other court proceedings here for half an hour and resulted in the abrupt termination of a trial.

W. J. Brown was on trial for possession and sale of liquor when somebody asked to see the evidence.

"Get that bottle of evidence," a deputy sheriff was instructed.

He returned half an hour later with a rueful expression on his face, but with no bottle in his hands. The beer, the only evidence the county had in its attempt to convict Brown, had disappeared from the sheriff's contraband liquor vault.

The judge granted his dissatisfaction and released Brown.

Mens Club To Visit Chabot

A visit to the Chabot observatory in Oakland will be paid this evening by members of the Baptist Mens club and their ladies. The party will leave the church at 6:30 o'clock. A lecture on the planets and constellations will be given by Prof. Lindsley.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB PLANS PROGRAM

An interesting and varied program will be presented by the Richmond Union high school International Club Oct. 17, in the high school auditorium.

Holland will be the theme of this year's program. That country will be described by Miss V. Wood, who will also show moving pictures taken in Holland.

A clever play entitled "French As It Is Spoken" will be presented by the International club. The play is being directed by Miss Dorothy Cox, faculty advisor, and Darrow Sutton, former president of the club. The cast includes: Joe Williams, Dorothy O will, Ernest Peters, Edward Faust, Maurice Flores, Paul Armstrong and Eugenia Pinoli.

A fine musical program has also been arranged for the evening. Piano selections will be offered by Hughes Fowell. "Dutch Lullaby" will be sung by Darrow Sutton and Albert Schults, while Eugenia Pinoli and Virginia Thole will sing "Dutch Dolls." The accompaniment will be provided by a costumed orchestra.

A Dutch dance will be presented by a group of girls directed by Mildred Lowell. The members of the chorus are: Christine Coleman, Harriet Barry, Bernice Newford, Mary Lou Hollyman, Roberta Hansen, Lenora Brougham, Ruth Brown, Jacqueline Armstrong, Gladys Foster, Irene Roifino, Grace Bodin and Mildred Lowell.

Oaklander Files Slander Suit

MARTINEZ, Oct. 8.—Damages totaling $25,000 were asked by J. H. Fitzpatrick of Oakland in a suit filed here today against Cliff C. Lind. Slander is alleged by the plaintiff. According to the complaint, Fitzpatrick was called a "dead beat" by Lind. Fitzpatrick also alleges that Lind accused him of not accounting for insurance funds and that Lind also stated that Fitzpatrick would have gone to the penitentiary if it had not been for him (Lind).

John L. Church and Edgar Shey were named as the persons to whom Lind made the alleged statements. The plaintiff says that the slanderous statements have injured his reputation in his position with the Morris Plan company in Oakland.

Infant Called By Death Here

Death came to the infant daughter of Mrs. Manuel Semas of North Richmond yesterday morning at the family home.

Funeral arrangements, which are in the hands of Curry's parlors have not yet been completed.

SPAN ATTACK SCORED BY DIRECTORS

SAN FRANCISCO Oct. 8.—UP—Declaring it is time to call a spade a spade, directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District issued a statement here late today which was interpreted as a challenge for opponents of the proposed bridge to prove charges they are making against it.

"The attack on the method of financing the Golden Gate bridge is the last hook upon which the opposition can hang its hat," the statement said. "Having failed completely in all other angles of attack, defeat of the project is now being sought by playing upon the question of taxation and spreading the gospel of liens on the taxpayers' property.

"The opponents shut their eyes to the traffic engineer's report, which shows that, no matter on what basis it is considered, the bridge can not fail to make a profit and certainly cannot fail to earn its interest. A deficit is impossible."

"The days are gone when a manufacturer can achieve national acceptance for his product merely through a vast advertising expenditure. Today's intense competition demands that a product be identified with a quality distinctly its own. POWELL WINS PRAISE IN FILM

William Powell, screendom's great cosmopolite, whose powerful portrayals of worldly men have gained him a fan mail greater than any demi-villian's heard in another will be seen and heard in another highl dramatic production when Paramount's "For the Defense" comes to the Fox-California theater for a run beginning today and tomorrow.

"For The Defense" is a story of a brilliant and crafty attorney whose sensational work in the courts of the big city attracts world-wide attention.

He is so successful in defending his clients,, many of them criminals with vicious past records, that he incurs the enmity of the police. It is this animosity which plays a part n bringing Powell himself befor the bar of justice as a prisoner.

Through a series of thrilling dramatic twists the story shows Powell faced with a jail threat from which he cannot escape without incriminating the woman he loves. The finale packs a terrific dramatic wallop.

Kay Francis, who was Powell's neglected wife in 'Street of Chance' is not nearly so neglected in the role of his sweetheart in "For the Defense." Many movie critics have picked Miss Francis as the ideal team-mate for Powell. In "For the Defense" she certainly fulfills the choice. Her work is better here than ever in her long series of talkies.

"For the Defense" was written by Oliver H. P. Garrett, author of "Street of Chance" and is based on a story by Charles Furthmann, former criminal defense lawyer who left a brilliant record in Chicago to enter the field of motion picture drifting.

John Cromwell directed "For the Defense". He made "The Mighty" and "The Texan."

Laurel & Harding in "The Murder Case", a comedy.

HOW TO END CONSTIPATION

If you want to get rid of constipation for good, you must cleanse the liver of its stored-up bile, and set it to working right. Remember it's a torpid, lazy liver clogged with bile that keeps you constipated. This surplus bile poisons your whole system, causing headaches, bad breath, sallow skin, sour stomach, gas, indigestion, dizzy spells or other disagreeable symptoms.

All that any ordinary physic does is to force a bowel movement without getting at the livers. What you really need is a thorough internal cleansing with Plantlax, which brings out all the accumulated bile and other foul secretions.

Plantlax is a most effective liver tonic compounded from the juices or extracts of harmless plants-remedies from Nature's own laboratory. It acts in a gentle, easy way—no irritation or weakening of the organs. Large bottle $1. On sale at all good drug stores.

Much Water In Eastbay Reservoirs

Fourteen months ago the local storage reservoirs of the East Bay municipal utility district had very little available water in them.

Today San Pablo and upper San Leandro reservoirs contain the largest volume of water they have ever held, according to the current report of Frank W. Hanna, chief engineer and general manager of the district.

On June 24, 1929, the first water ran through the Mokelumne system replenishing a supply which was fast failing and which would have been exhausted within two or three weeks.

In the fall of 1930 San Pablo reservoir is filled to within 2.5 feet of the spillway and is nearly five feet higher than its previous high water mark.

When the Mokelumne water arrived fourteen months ago the water level in San Pablo was down to the bottom of the outlet tunnel and was flowing backward from the dam in a very small stream. There was scarcely enough water to support the numerous fish in the big reservoir.

Upper San Leandro reservoir is now thirteen feet higher than it has ever been in its history and is constantly rising due to the fact that the principal portion of the Mokelumne supply in the near future will be stored in that reservoir rather in San Pablo.

According to Hanna's report transmission of water from the Pardee reservoir continued to the end of September at better than sixty million gallons daily.

Despite the heavy draft the summer and the release of a large quantity of water through the dam for the purpose of making power, Pardee reservoir still holds more than thirty-four billion gallons or approximately thirty-four months supply for the nine cities of the utility district. Sufficient water will always be held in the big reservoir to insure at least a year's supply, according to Hanna.

In addition to the supply at the Pardee reservoir, the local reservoirs now hold more than nine billion gallons.

Hanna's report showed that consumption of water which reached its peak in the summer has begun to fall off and that the average daily consumption amounted to 38,190,000 gallons during the last month.

Cash receipts at the business offices for the month of September were $170,157. One hundred eighty-four families moved into the district during the month, 106 of which located in Oakland, 43 in Berkeley, 11 in Alameda, 19 in Richmond and 5 in San Leandro.

Elopers, Best Man Arrested

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—UP—A pair of Seattle elopers, 18 years of age, who thoughtfully brought their own "best man" aged 16 along with them, were held in the Juvenile Home here today to await the arrival of parents. The couple, Gertrude Responte and Isaac Hasson, along with Leo Alkana, the "best man" were delivered over to police by a woman from Seattle, whom they visited upon their arrival here. The "best man" admitted that he had been appointed to that position because he supplied the automobile (his father's) in which the elopement occurred.

Mother Of Local Matron Called

Mrs. Jane Brown, mother of Mrs. A. G. Schlaudecker of 52 Fourth street, has passed away in St. Paul, according to word received here yesterday.

Mrs. Brown formerly resided in Richmond, leaving for St. Paul five years ago. The deceased was 72 years old at the time of her death. Besides Mrs. Schlaudecker, she leaves a son in the east. A son, John Brown, passed away two months ago.

The funeral of Mrs. Brown will be held in the east.

Well Slayers To Be Sentenced Today

REDWOOD CITY, Oct. 8.—UP—Mrs. Minnie Roderick, convicted by a jury for the murder of her husband, Frank Roderick, wealthy La Honda rancher and Will Woodring found guilty on the same charge, will appear in court here Thursday for sentence.

"I didn't get a square deal," Mrs. Roderick claimed today. "I was promised clemency if I would tell the whole story."

District Attorney Franklin Swart denied her charges.

Big Order Made By P. G. And E.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Orders for 12,000,000 pounds of copper at 10 cents a pound to cover its needs for the coming year have been placed by the Pacific Gas and Electric company with the Anaconda Copper company and the General Cable corporation, it was announced here tonight.

The announcement remarked that the market price of copper is now at its lowest in 34 years and in the case of many mines is below cost of production.

The total cost of the copper, including that of manufacture will be $1,500,000 the gas and electric company said. Anaconda Copper company and General Cable corporation were favored it was said, because they have local plants.

Auxiliary To U. C. Hospital Plans Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The October meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the University of California hospital, which was scheduled for last week, will be held instead on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, October 9, in Toland Hall, University hospital, Third and Parnassus avenues.

Dr. William Kerr, professor of medicine in the medical school will be the speaker of the day. His subject will be "Reptiles and Angeles," and the lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held November 6, and the final meeting of the year will take place December 4. The speakers and subjects of these meetings will be Dr. Eva C. Reid, on "The Psychiatric Clinic," for November, and Dr. Frank W. Lynch on "Present Day Obstetrics," for December.

Officers of the auxiliary for this year are: Mrs. Leon Roos, president; Mrs. P. C. Hale, vice-president; Dr. Langley Porter, treasurer, and Mrs. H. R. Gallagher secreeary. The directors are Mrs. Aaron Adler, Mrs. Charles Bentley, Mrs. R. I. Bentley, Mrs. Walter Bliss, Mrs. Jessie Colman, Mrs. P. A. Coxon, Mrs. A. B. C. Dohrmann, Mrs. Mark Gerstle, Mrs. R. Heimann, Mrs. Felix Kahn, Mrs. Frederick Koster, Mrs. Thomas Magee, Mrs. C. C. Moore, Mrs. Lawrence A. Myers, Mrs. S. W. Newman, Mrs. Florence Porter Pfingst, Mrs. George Roos, Mrs. S. Samson, Mrs. Frank Schwabacher and Mrs. Dean Witter.

The purpose of the Women's auxiliary of the University hospital is to give moral and material support to the out-patients of the hospital. The community chest is not able to furnish funds to meet costs of blood transfusions, scales and syringes for diabetic patient, spectacles, orthopedic belts and other apparatus essential to carrying out some treatments. During the past year the auxiliary provided $840 for the relief of 138 needy sick.

JOHNS HOPKINS SAVANT AT U. C.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—One of the most distinguished visitors to the University of California medical school this year was Dr. William Henry Welch of Johns Hopkins university, who lectured before the stunts this month, according to an announcement made today by Dean Langley Porter.

Dr. Welch is one of the four men responsible for the development of Johns Hopkins Medical School. His visit to California was particularly significant because it was Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman, second president of the University of California and later president of Johns Hopkins, who in 1884 appointed Dr. Welch to the Hopkins Medical School.

At his last birthday Dr. Welch was 80 years old, but is still one of the most active figures in his profession. His contribution to the development of American medicine has been so great that President Hoover attended his birthday celebration, and special meetings in commemoration of his name were held in all of the leading countries of Europe and Asia. It was Dr. Welch who gathered the staff that made Johns Hopkins famous. He brought there, Dr. Osler, greatest English physician of modern times; Dr. Halstead, father of American surgery, and Dr. Kelly, a leader in his field.

Until he was 63, Dr. Welch was professor of pathology. His former students have filled important posts in practically every leading medical school in the United States. At 63 he became director of the Institute of Public Health. About five years later, at an age when most are retired, he took over the post of professor of the history of medicine. Ten years later he accepted the responsibility of organizing the first institute of the history of medicine at Johns Hopkins. At the age of 76 he became interested in flying and earned a pilot's license. He has been granted honorary degrees by practically every college of importance in the country. He is considered to be the first man to introduce adequate medical training in English-speaking medical colleges.

At the University of California he was given a luncheon by Dean Porter and members of the faculty and spoke on the many leaders in medicine that he has known. He also attended a meeting of the Medical History Seminar which members of the university staff and practicing physicians have organized. This meeting was dedicated to the three hundredth anniversary of the introduction of quinine in medicine and the thirtieth anniversary of the discovery of the causative organism of malaria which quinine controls. Dr. Welch said that he had never met such a well-organized and interested group of students of medical history anywhere in the world.

PUZZLES FOUND IN SOUTH SEA BY SAVANT

BERKELEY.—UP—Fish are susceptible to common curiosity. You can walk across red-hot coals in your bare feet without gretting hurt, if you know how. There's many a drama in the life span of a cocoanut.

Such are the observations, reinforced with still and motion pictures, many of them in color, brought back by Dr. A .C. Pillsbury, noted camera-scientist of Berkeley, who has just returned from a four-months' expedition to the South Seas.

"Among other things," said Dr. Pillsbury, commenting upon his adventures, "I learned that fish are about as curious as human beings. Soon after I would land on the floor of the Pacific, my head in a diver's helmet, the fish would begin to gather round and peek into the 'windows' of my helmet. Believe it or not, they would gather in such droves as to blacken the water, and I'd have to beat them away with my hands. A moment later they would be back again.

"Between brushes I managed to get some extraordinary pictures of undersea life and coral formations. Fortunately for science, there were no sharks or devil fish among my unexpected guests."

Dr. Pillsbury sailed for Honolulu on the Matson liner Malolo four months ago. After "shooting" some botanical subjects in Hawaii he went to Suva, Fiji, where he took many thousands of feet of undersea pictures. In Pago Pago, American Samoa, Dr. Pillsbury recorded the life story of the cocoanut, from bud to ripened fruit.

On the island of Benga, Dr. Pillsbury said, he managed to film the rare and closely guarded ceremony of the Fire Walkers, an annual religious fete peculiar to Benda. The "altar" is a pit of hot coals 17 feet in diameter, over which the barefoot natives slowly walk.

"The coals were hot enough to burn sole leather," Dr. Pillsbury said, "but the natives seemed not to mind. As nearly as I could acertain none of them was burned. One barefoot girl walked unflinchingly across the glowing embers.

New Series Of Nash Cars Are Announced

KENOSHA, Wis. Oct. 8.—Four remarkable new groups of automobiles, reflecting the greatest values and offered at the lowest prices ever established by the famous Nash organization, were announced today by the Nash Motors company.

Ranging in price from $795—the lowest cost ever achieved in a typical Nash quality car—to $2025, and representing a striking advancement in motor car engineering and performance, balanced to today's increased dollar value, the new cars were received with unprecedented enthusiasm by a motoring public awaiting them with a resharpened sense of motor car value.

This impressive presenation of three distinctive new straight eight series and the popular new six cylinder group, comprising in all twenty attractive models, is the answer to C. W. Nash and his experienced associates to the universal demand for improved motoring efficiency and economy and for sound national prosperity building.

New Series

In making this, the most important public announcement of the automobile year, Nash emphasized the vital necessity of supplying the public with manufactured products measuring to the highest standards at prices wholly consistent with the advanced purchasing power of the present day dollar.

"We have always felt it an imperative duty to Nash owners to set out motor car standards higher than the average," he said. "We are sure that in the new Eight-90, Eight-80, Eight-70 and new Nash six series the motoring public will recognize cars of superlative value as well as cars of superior design and performance. They all represent years of proved engineering research which have made them mechanically certain in every respect, and the manufacturing economies of an organization whose primary aim has been to produce a higher quality at a lower cost to the buyer than can be found anywhere in the automobile field."

The goal of Nash engineers in producing these four new series was to create the greatest possible mechanical efficiency in each field. So each of the new car groups was treated as a distinct and and specialized development. Engineering fitted to one series was not forced upon another. The weight of the car, the number of cylinders in the motor, size of the motor and the price field for which the series was intended, all played their part in mechanical character and design. To well-informed and experienced motorists the mechanical advancements in each series is a source of unusual interest.

New Design

In design and construction, the new Nash six models are considered a triumph of modern engineering. They bring within the financial reach of new thousands the high quality and satisfaction which tried and proved Nash engineering has made a tradition of the industry at a price unmatched in the field. To the basic principles of high compression and high turbulence so successfully engineered to L-head motor construction, the new motor adds an impressive list of advancements usually found in only the highest priced cars. These distinguishing features include in part; a finely machined, 7-bearing crankshaft lightened by hollowed crank pins; rifle bore connecting rods for force feed oiling to the piston pins; the latest and finest type aluminum alloy Invar strut pistons; perfected carburetion with fuel pump feed; newly refined fan and water pump, equipped with a sealing ring instead of the conventional pump packing, and with thermostatic control of water circulation.

Additional features and equipment include an effective torsional vibration damper, oil filter and air cleaner; new easy operating clutch and silent transmission with ball bearing clutch release and cushioned clutch driven plate; usually massive double-drop frame; hydraulic shock absorbers, co-ordinated with individuality tailored springs; cable operated, fully inclosed 4-wheel brakes; finest type cam and lever steering system; four point, rubber cushioned motor suspension; co-incidental ignition-steering lock and dash board starting control. New, low-swung beauty, added roominess, and fine car luxury in the extra large Nash Seaman bodies, give the last touch of value to this big efficient Nash series.

New Eight

Superior engineering in the Eight 90 series presents new and finer Nash cars which embody every attribute that discriminating motorists have longed for in an automobile. They are the finished products of years of progressive thought and engineering development in the twin-ignition, eight-cylinder field. Individually, they are considered examples of performance perfection unequaled in Nash manufacturing history.

Several major advancements lead the many refinement details which bring performance leadership to the Eight-90 motor. Nash engineering has increased the motor's power fifteen percent, without increasing its fuel consumption. The horse-power thus developed is 115 as compared to 100 in the former twin-ignition eight. Perfected, twin type carburetion, accomplished by twin manifolding and duplicate fuel jets, is a feature of particular interest. This increase in power has materially advanced the speed at the driver's command, the performance qualities at all speed ranges, and the car's responsiveness.

One of the most important Eight-90 series advancements is the new "safety transmission," which provides quick, positive control of the car, a shortened, easy shift, silence in second gear, and the ability to shift easily and without clashing of gears at any and all speeds. Safety in all speed ranges, in traffic where quick get-away is imperative and in negotiating mountainous roads and steep down-grades, has been accomplished by the helical gear design and the constant meshing of second gears. This development, in addition to an effective arrangement of jaw clutches, permits a short, unhampered shift from second to high speeds and vice versa. Softly cushioned clutch action completes the efficiency of transmission and clutch units and brings absolute driving confidence.

New Bodies

On wheelbases of 133 and 124 inches and equipped with bodies of new charm, luxury and distinction, these models are powered by the famous Nash twin-ignition, high compression, straight eight power plant, whose construction is featured by the nine-bearing, counterbalanced crankshaft with hollow crankpins, doweled bearing caps and torsional vibration damper; drop forged, aluminum alloy connecting rods and aluminum alloy pistons; six bearing camshaft with frictionless chain drive; full force feed motor lubrication and fully machined combustion chambers. New, Bijur automatic chassis lubrication which reaches 22 vital chassis points as the engine runs, steel encased, life-time lubricated springs, double action, hydraulic shock absorbers, and the many additional mechanical features of the former twin-ignition eight all aid in unequaled performance. Complete insulation of the body from the frame, felt sealed floor boards and insulation of the dash panel on both sides adds materially to driving comfort. Refinement of the entire cooling system with its large capacity radiator, thermostatically controlled radiator shutters, self oiling fan and new, nitrated pump shaft, which gives this important unit a degree of hardness second only to the diamond and thus impervious to wear, brings the system to its highest efficiency.

In the new Eight-70 series, Nash has brought to motorists one of the lowest priced, quality straight eights that has ever entered the market. In power, pick-up, adaptability and general performance, the new product is comparable to the highest priced motor cars. Built on a generous 116-inch wheelbase, the new models are big cars in every respect. Grace and lasting beauty characterize their aristocratic new bodies.

Rich appointments, including the finest quality mohair upholstery, smoking sets on each side of the rear seat, smartly patterned interior-ware, silver finished, moderne instrument panel, and satisfying performance qualities mark them as sensational examples of the "new Nash deal for the new dollar."

New Engine

Powered with the high compression, high turbulence motor of Nash L-head design, developing more than 75 horse-power, the new Eight-70 series offers performance far in advance of its field. Its aluminum alloy pistons, improved to the last degree; rifle bored connecting rods, nine-bearing crankshaft with effective vibration damper; ultra-modern down-draft carburetor which insures instant starting, swift acceleration and perfect motor operation, combined with its host of regular Nash engineering features, such as Bijur, automatic chassis lubrication, hydraulic shock absorbers, and world's easiest steering system, creates a new and higher standard for the price field the series occupies.

Watch-like precision marks every mechanical detail of the handsome new Eight-80 group. Critical examination of this newest twin-ignition, straight eight motor and its component units results in the conviction that these cars are capable of fulfilling the most exacting requirements of the experienced motorist. Such examinations also stirs amazement that the wealth of mechanical features it contains could be offered for its modest price. Briefly, these features include:

Wheelbase 121 inches; twin-ignition, valve-in-head, straight eight motor, developing 85 horse-power; perfected, down-draft carburetion with fuel pump feed; aluminum alloy Invar strut pistons, connecting rods drilled for oiling to piston pins; inherently counterbalanced 9-bearing crankshaft with hollowed crankpins and vibration damper; self-oiling fan; six bearing camshaft with silent roller chain drive, new, easy-shift transmission and easy operating clutch; full force feed motor lubrication; new Bijur automatic chassis lubricating system, new, easy steering system with stabilator to ward road shocks from the wheel; double-action hydraulic shock absorbers and metal covered, permanently lubricated springs; cable actuated, self energizing 4-wheel brakes; automatic built-in radiator shutters and effective new insulation of dash-board and floor boards.

BANNERS FOR TRAFFIC BOYS

Boys of the Oakland junior traffic reserve will blossom out with banners representative of each school the next time there is a street demonstration of the junior officers, according to plans worked out by the Parent Teachers' association and officers of the Oakland junior traffic reserve.

The banners are in the form of a standard to be carried by the boys of each school with its own school colors and the name of the school on the banner.

Plans were completed by Mrs. Fred Summer, safety chairman of the Parent Teachers association; Arthur W. Moore, president of the traffic reserve, and officers G. L. Doolan and Carl L. Anderson, directors of the Reserve.

The following schools have already arranged to secure banners: Bella Vista Anthony Chabot, Emerson, Frick Jr. High, Golden Gate, Laurel, Lincoln, Lockwood, Manzanita, McClymonds, Parker, Prescott, St. Anthony's, St. Augustine's, St. Colombo, St. Elizabeth, Santa Fe and Technical High.

The traffic reserve is now established in 44 schools with a total membership of 1597 boys. These members guard 87 crossings and care for the safety and welfare of approximately 35000 school children four times daily.

According to Moore, the discipline enforced upon their fellow students is far more effective than if administered by an adult officer.

Artist Will Make Exhibit Of New Art

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—With interest fanned to the burning point by objectives to Communistic Diego Rivera's commission to paint San Francisco stock exchange murals, plans were going ahead here today to exhibit work of the noted Mexican painter.

The California Palace of the Legion of Honor will exhibit Rivera paintings starting Oct. 23 so that San Francisco may see exactly the manner of artistic endeavor which has won the Mexican an international reputation.

Rivera, expelled from the Communist party a year ago, will arrive here late in the month to start mural paintings for the luncheon club of the stock exchange. He will depict the commercial, industrial and financial progress of California.

Announcement that Rivera had been granted the commission disturbed the local art colony vastly, there being loud protests that a former Communist could not do justice to scenes exemplifying a thing in which he does not believe.

Officers of the stock exchange, however, refused to become alarmed over Rivera's Communistic tendencies and declined to heed the demands that a local man be substituted for him.

Hawks Again Sets Record

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—UP—Captain Frank M. Hawks, holder of the transcontinental speed record flew from, Philadelphia to New York today in 20 minutes, at the rate of 270 miles an hour. It was believed to be the fastest commercial flight on record. Hawks was carrying pictures of the Philadelphia-St. Louis world series baseball game.

Dancer Freed Of Theft Charge

OAKLAND, Oct. 8.—UP—Cashier's checks valued at $27,500 were a gift of C. H. Morehouse to Clara Hanks Nelson, a dancer, the jury that tried Miss Nelson on a charge of theft decided late today when they acquitted her.

Morehouse had claimed that the dancer stole the checks from him when he took her for an automobile ride but she contended Morehouse had given them to her.

GLENDALE, Calif., Oct. 8.—UP—Laura Ingal's, St. Paul, arrived at the Grand Central Air Terminal at 4:25 p. m. today completing the first transcontinental record flight ever made by a woman. Her time was 30 hours, 27 minutes.

NEW DIRECTOR OF CHAMBER NAMED

The Richmond chamber of commerce yesterday named as a member of its board of directors T. E. Ward, new Richmond territorial manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric company. Ward was appointed on the resignation of Geo. N. Rooker.

The chamber of commerce has signified its intention to work with the Richmond 20-30 club in matters of policy of local improvement. A committee to cooperate with the club will be named by President Sanford.

City Manager McVittie reported that no sign will be placed by the city at Cutting boulevard and Tenth street to direct traffic up Tenth to the inner harbor until the Ford plant is completed and until Tenth street is widened. He stated that this street is already overcrowded with traffic during rush hours.

J. R. Hayden, assistant traffic manager for the Santa Fe railway company, will be guest of honor at the luncheon to be given by the chamber of commerce some time next month.

A new deal for today's dollar!

NASH Announces . . .

3 new EIGHTS and a new SIX

NEVER was such motor car quality offered at prices so sensationally low. The literally startling difference becomes at once apparent when you contrast the prices of the new and finer Nash series, with prices of corresponding models a year ago.

Its low non-productive overhead, its elimination of borrowed capital, and remarkably foresighted manufacturing alone enable Nash to offer so much for so little. The unique example in value-giving thus provided the industry was planned last November. At that time, C. W. Nash and the strong group of executives surrounding him, clearly foresaw present conditions. They at once began to design cars affording value so great, so unmistakable, as to overcome all buying reluctance.

The result is instantly apparent. Even casual inspection of the four new Nash cars establishes the fact that nothing even remotely approaching them in downright dollar value has ever been available in their respective price fields.

SENSATIONALLY PRICED!

STUDY THESE SENSATIONAL PRICES!

Compare what is probably the most remarkable achievement of Nash in greater value-giving—the New Six—with the Single Six it succeeds. The new Six offers a multitude of superiorities—at prices which range from $160 to $140 below the prices of the Single Six.

Body Style	The New Six W. B. 114¾"	Last Year's Six W. B. 114¾"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$845	~~$1005~~	—$160
Coupe	$795	~~$940~~	—$145
Coupe (rumble seat)	$825	~~$980~~	—$155
Sedan (2-door)	$795	~~$935~~	—$140

Compare the New Eight-70 with its two additional cylinders, its longer wheelbase, its larger, more luxurious body, with the six-cylinder car it replaces. Then consider the remarkable fact that there is actually a basic price differential in favor of the New Eight!

Body Style	The New Eight-70 W. B. 116¾"	Last Year's Six W. B. 114¾"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$995	~~$1005~~	—$10
Coupe	$945	~~$940~~	+$5
Coupe (rumble seat)	$975	~~$980~~	—$5
Special Sedan (4-door)	$955

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 Series with the 6-cylinder car it replaces. The Eight-80 is larger, longer. Design, appointments, upholstery are finer—prices are radically lower.

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 W. B. 121"	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Six W. B. 118"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$1295	~~$1415~~	—$120
Coupe	$1245	~~$1345~~	—$100
Coupe (rumble seat)	$1285	~~$1395~~	—$110
Town Sedan (4-door)	$1375

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 Series, now with a 115 H. P. Engine, with the last year's 100 H. P. Eight. Body appointments are finer, upholstery more luxurious, and prices are far lower!

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 W. B. 124"-133"	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Eight W. B. 124"-135"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$1565	~~$1795~~	—$230

FABLES FOR THE FAIR

The Worst Bargain in the World

ONCE upon a time there was a plump, dimpled, blond young thing,
Who put an advertisement in the paper that she would marry any man
Who would give her $1,000 so that she might take care of her sick and aged mother.
Well, she got pieces printed about her "pathetic," "self-sacrificing" offer—
And even photographs of her attractive self appeared.
Of course, too, she got plenty of answers from would-be Romeos—
This sort of thing has been done many a time and oft,
And always, ALWAYS there are numbers of ingenuous males who fall for it.
To make a long story short, in this particular case the girl was held, only the other day, in a Long Island court
On a charge of grand larceny,
Since she admitted to the magistrate that she was already married
When she offered to become a wife for a thousand cold cash.
And also admitted that her mother, only forty-three years old,
Is living in the South with her own husband.
The girl finally told the court a tale of how the whole scheme was cooked up
By her sister-in-law and her sister-in-law's husband—
How it was simply a "marriage racket" for collecting from suckers,
Two of whom came across with some $1,250.

The whole ridiculous, sordid story suggests to a woman two questions:
How can any girl with a sense of humor offer herself as a wife for $1,000—more or less?
How can any man with a grain of common sense fall for the offer?
If we may believe the news, there is every now and then a case
When this "marriage racket" is at least started as a legitimate business transaction,
With the young woman, so dauntlessly confident of her charms,
Ready and resolved to offer them at the matrimonial altar
To the young gentleman who ingenuously accepts her estimate,
And who comes across with the $1,000, or the $5,000, or whatever the sum may be,
Which, according to the heroine, her aged parents require.
Take the girl, first—for, naturally, we expect our sex
To have more sense than the other!
Why in the name of common honesty should an ordinary young woman,
With the usual quota of two eyes, a nose and a mouth—
WHY should this young person consider that she is worth from $1,000 up
As a first instalment on a matrimonial bargain?
Anything but a bargain we'd call it—
What every woman knows, and in honesty must admit,
Is that any young man worth marrying
Has no difficulty whatsoever in finding plenty of reasonably attractive, intelligent and amiable maidens
Any one of whom will gladly answer "Yes" when he says, "Will you be mine?"
He doesn't have to take a wife on a cash-and-carry system—
Of course, in the long run, he pays plenty for her,
But at least he has to make no huge initial deposit—
In fact, he often can arrange a marriage
With only the price of the ring, the fee for the license bureau and (perhaps) honeymoon expenses in his pocket.
After all, he's "giving" himself to her,
Even as she is "giving" herself to him—
Fair exchange is no robbery, and her endearing young charms need not come so dear as $1,000 or more.
How can she look at herself in the glass and keep a straight face
When she has made, or even contemplated making, the "sell myself" offer—
Who is she, what is she, that any such premium be paid for her?
Well, and then take the man who falls for such brazen self-advertising—
What kind of a come-on is he?
Is he the sort of idiot who judges the goods by the price-tag?
Is he suffering from such an inferiority complex
That he cannot imagine being loved for himself alone—
But only for the $1,000 or $5,000 which he lays on the counter?
Does he really want a bride so mercenary
That she insists on seeing the color of his money beforehand—
However praiseworthy the alleged purpose to which she intends to devote it?
Personally, this notion that nowadays a girl must "sell herself," even in wedlock,
To take care of her father and mother—
This notion seems to us unmitigated bunk.
Think of all the girls who are working and earning in self-respecting ways,
In order to support helpless parents;
Even if an operation be necessary there are hospitals;
Even if some one needs to be sent to the country or the mountains,
There are ways in which young women who work can arrange to finance such expenditures.
To marry for the living of one's father and mother
Is only less indolent and unresourceful and unfair
Than to marry for one's own living.
If a girl's people need her help
There is no reason why she should seek to transfer the responsibility to her husband-to-be,
And it's a pretty poor foundation for happy married life
To hang in-laws about a man's neck even before he is married.
The whole sensational grand stand play seems to us to be based on the fallacy
That a wife is worth more to a man
Than a husband is to a woman—
"Which," as Euclid says, "is absurd."
The normal woman wants marriage and a husband exactly as much
As the normal man wants marriage and a wife;
She stands to gain at least as much as he from the relationship,
He honors her quite as much as she honors him,
And, so far as money is actually involved in married life,
In the majority of cases it's the man who pays and pays and pays—
Without, as we said, having to make a whacking big deposit beforehand.
Actually, of course, the true values of marriage are not financial,
The love on which such marriage is based is without money and without price.
That's why it seems so sordid to us for money to be considered beforehand—
Even in ways less crude than that of the girl who offers herself for $1,000—
Even in the secret strivings and longings of the girl and her mother
Who are on the lookout for "a good match."
When calculation comes in at the door, Cupid flies out of the window.
Romance never can be organized along the lines of a "racket."
And, while every marriage based on romance does not succeed,
We doubt that ANY marriage truly succeeds if the romantic element be completely absent.
Marrying for money, openly or secretly, is the worst bargain in the world—
Since both sides are cheated!

Distinctive Beauty for Normal Skin

HAVING discussed the problem of dry skin and the characteristics and correction of oily skin, we shall now turn our attention to the normal skin. How shall you know whether or not you have a normal skin? This way:

If your pores are not large, if your nose isn't given to excessive "oiling," if your skin doesn't chap easily or sunburn easily, then it is a normal skin. For a normal skin is one that is just about "right," one that gives no trouble to speak of, just a good healthy skin.

However, those blessed with a skin like this rarely give it the appreciation or the care it deserves. Just a little of the right sort of attention every day and the normal skin will blossom into a thing of distinctive beauty. What is more, it will stay that way for years and years—just so long as the correct and kindly attention is kept up.

Just washing a healthy skin with soap and water—and usually any old kind of soap—is no way to treat it. No, it must have a certain amount of lubrication with a good face cream and it must be washed with a soap that agrees with it. There should be a thorough cleansing with cream at least twice a week.

If the normal skin is over the age of twenty-five, preventive treatments become most necessary to the continuance of its good health and beauty. The sensitive area around the eyes must be watched to keep the crow's feet away. Lightly tapping in a tissue cream beneath the eyes and at the temples takes but two minutes each day. A small price to pay for youthfulness, isn't it?

The skin that has gone beyond first youth, even though it be a normal skin, must have a little stimulation occasionally. To stir up the circulation locally, wake up the skin and give it the bright glow and radiance of the teens. We suggest a gently stimulating lotion or a tingling liquid cleanser for this purpose. Or you may prefer to give yourself small daily doses of natural stimulation, by patting the face with the fingers after each cleansing operation.

To keep the chin in a state of single blessedness and the contours of the cheeks firm and young, treat face and throat to an egg mask periodically. Once a fortnight if you are in the middle twenties, and once a week if you belong to the interesting thirties. You simply coat the skin with the white of one egg, letting this "mask" remain on just as long as you find it convenient—at least for twenty minutes. Egg-white is the "face lifter" par excellence!

One means of touching the normal skin into something of dazzling loveliness instantly is, of course, make up. The right tones of rouge, powder, and lipstick, artfully applied, and the whole face, the whole personality are enkindled.

FOLLIES OF FASHION | Elaborate Sleeves Cut One's Height

By Marguerite Barnes

SOME of the sleeves this season show such extreme and lavish use of fur that they are very difficult for the women of broad figure and medium height to wear. The sleeve at the left, with its huge flaring double cuff of Persian lamb, adds tremendously to the width of the rather short, heavy-set woman who is wearing it. Though long coats are better for short women, she has made the mistake of wearing one that is so very long it makes her legs and feet seem out of proportion. The woman at the right has made the same type of figure appear to better advantage by her well chosen coat. The not-too-full collar of gray astrakhan, the half bolero and the cleverly designed cuff, all add to her height, and the coat is neither too long nor too short. Short or heavy-set women should avoid such cuffs as shown in the small figures 1 and 2, and should choose those without too much fur, those that do not hide the vertical sleeve line, or that do not carry the fur above the elbow, as in figures 3 and 4.

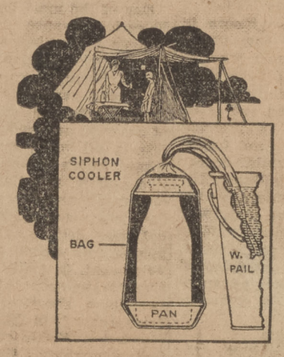
For the Home Mechanics

A BATTERY of siphon coolers around a pail of water—each performing the benevolent act of cooling a bottle of water, milk or other drinkable, sounds good, doesn't it?

Particularly if the battery works best if placed out in the sun. The idea is founded on the physical fact that rapid evaporation will make ice even on an open desert. Coupled with that fact is the other about capillarity drawing a liquid out of a container by the aid of capillary attraction in cloth, blotting paper, etc.—a slender tube is the best known example of this siphon action.

Fortified with these facts, we have devised a simple plan for utilizing them. First, we make a series of bags, of rather open yet heavy cheesecloth—just large enough to hold two pans (as shown) and about a yard long. A dozen of these bags are none too many, although some may be for a larger container than a milk bottle, or even smaller, if so desired. The principal plan is to have the cloth of the bag never touch the bottle, and the pans placed as illustrated are put in each bag for the purpose of holding it away from the container. The proportions shown are about correct.

For convenience when inserting or removing the container, the bags may be open on one side from a point an inch above where it is twisted.



The twist is used to shut off or regulate the flow of water from the pail; for, if evaporation is slow, the water must be shut off so as to keep the bag around the bottle always on the point of drying. On the other hand, when the bag dries out too quickly, there must be more water, and the container bag is moistened by unwinding the twist. Thin aluminum pans never rust, and they should be used for this reason. They will also require less evaporation to cool because of their light weight.

How to Make Your Screen

THERE was a time when a screen was merely ornamental, more or less. Just another piece of furniture. You could look behind a screen in the 80's without being surreptitious about it, but nowadays, if the screen is in the living room, more likely than not it conceals a kitchenette, or it may even be that it is the kitchenette with pots and pans and skewers and things clinging to hooks on its "other" side. If the screen happens to be in the bedroom, peep behind it and the chances are you'll find yourself gazing into a bathroom, or quite as probably the screen forms the front wall of the living room. The point is, screens have become 50 per cent more useful than they are ornamental and the majority of them are both.

Beautiful screens are to be had ready made in the shops, but in case your pocketbook rebels at the price or you are more interested to make your own, here are some suggestions that will help.

If you will look for your frame in the kitchen departments of the stores you are bound to find just the right size and shape, though you may have to shop around a bit to do so. And if you should be unable to find precisely the desired sort of frame, ask for a clothes horse. Most of these "horses" come in wider panels than the regulation screen frames, although these, too, are available in a variety of shapes and sizes.

Wall paper, thin beaver board, Japanese rice paper, almost any of the imitation parchments are suitable for paneling the flat screen frames, but for the clothes horse frame the chintzes and cretonnes are rather easier to work with as they can be shirred or otherwise sewed to it. Not that the other materials are prohibitive. Quite the contrary. You merely provide yourself with tiny headless tacks, the very short ones, and use them not at all sparingly. See that the fabric or the paper, whatever you are using, is cut a full inch longer at each end than the frame, thus enabling you to draw it securely about the rounds.

If you are inclined to make the screen, frame and all, youself, any lumber yard will cut the pieces of wood for you to your measurements. You may make your frame in either of two ways. The first and more simple is to have the frame flat. Ask the lumber man to cut the pieces ready for dovetailing. That is, to cut the ends of each piece slantwise so that they fit perfectly and form perfectly tight corners. Your frame put together, you tack your material evenly right to the flat sides, using fancy headed tacks and making the tacking, if you like, a part of the decoration.

The other way of making the frame is to proceed as above, but instead of tacking the material on the flat of the frame you have an extra or inner frame made and the material is tacked to the main frame and the inner frame fitted over or, rather, into it. It may be, in fact it should be, that the inner frame and the outer fit so securely that the covering material is held fast and no tacks required.

There are so many attractive ways of decorating the frames and so many more of making decorative panels inexpensively that it is difficult to know what to mention specifically. It is rather a fad now to have the frame a part of the decorative scheme. That is, to allow the decoration of the paneling to run over onto the frame. This is particularly effective where the panels are broad, strangely enough. Also, there is much use of stenciling with the wash done in gay colors.

Prints make beautiful screens. They are pasted on with exceeding care, preferably by the use of a broad brush, a diminutive of the type painters use, and then giving the whole panel a coat of shellac. Wall papers may be similarly treated, and if the patterns are painstakingly selected, the paper of good quality and the finishing done properly the results can hardly fail to be satisfactory.

How Much of Hot Water?

A WOMAN consulted her physician in regard to an intestinal disturbance and was informed her condition, which is serious, is due to over-indulgence in hot water drinking. She had been told by a friend that drinking hot water before breakfast promotes health.

She now denounces the drinking of hot water, which is entirely wrong. Her suffering was not caused by the water; it was simply her wrong method of administering a really good article. Everything can be overdone. Drinking water is essential to good health. Overdoing even a good thing may be harmful and drinking from eight to ten glasses of water, whether hot or cold, in succession is overdoing.

One or two glasses of water before breakfast is beneficial to the average person and if lemon juice is added the benefits are increased. If this is preferred hot it does not follow that the entire alimentary tract must be scalded.

Drinking hot water has proved beneficial in intestinal and other disorders and it may benefit you, but drink it in moderation both as to quantity and temperature.

Cleaning Waxed Floors

DO not use water on a waxed floor. In case any gets on accidentally wipe it off without delay.

Sweep the floor with a soft brush or mop entirely free from oil, for oil softens the wax.

Water dulls and whitens a waxed floor but it is not necessary to use water to clean a waxed floor. A cloth saturated with liquid wax will remove spots.

It you think the floor requires a thorough cleaning use turpentine with a cloth—this will dissolve the coating of dirty wax on the surface and the floor will be cleaned.

If you happen to be one of those housekeepers who consider water the best cleanser, wring a cloth as dry as possible out of warm, soapy water and wipe floor. If this removes the color and luster you will have to polish the floor to restore it to its original brightness.

A weighted brush or woolen cloth should be used occasionally on a waxed floor to retain its luster.

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

DO YOU remember the story I told you about the little walrus who was sitting on the top of a glacier years, yes, centuries, ago and gradually the iceberg slipped into the sea and the walrus HAD to swim or lose his life?

That is just like business today.

The old carriage business has gone.

The old-fashioned refrigerator has been pushed aside by the one that makes its own ice.

The busses are cutting into the railroads.

Miniature golf courses are making holes in the movies. And so it goes. But why mention these things? What have they to do with you or me?

Simply this—it is time for us to look into our business and see what the future is. If your business should stop tomorrow, is there something you would fit into?

Try This

Save the tinfoil that foods are wrapped in. One of its uses is to place it under the flower receptacle to prevent the dampness from injuring the polished table.

Removing Glass Stains

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

ORGANIC stains, such as are caused by fruits, coffee, tea and water that have stood in glass or porcelain containers, are usually very difficult to remove. Ordinary methods have no effect on them, once they have become caked or hardened. This is particularly true of egg-shell china, of vases and of all deep or small-mouthed liquid containers.

They used to put shot in the cut-glass carafes, or water bottles, to try to grind off the misty stain left in them by invisible vegetable substances contained in ordinary drinking water, but it could not be got rid of in that way. Nor could the troublesome stain be removed with rather strong solutions of hydrofluoric acid. It requires chemical action to soften and remove the stains, yet it must not act upon the glass or porcelain, as in the case of hydrofluoric acid, which destroys the vessel and not the stain.

Concentrated sulphuric acid, which is the strongest of the acids and commonly known as "oil of vitriol," will not destroy glass or porcelain, yet it acts upon organic matter by taking away the water contained in them and thus leaving the carbon or solid part of vegetable matter. If we get an ounce bottle of the acid at the drug store and 10 cents worth of powdered potassium bichromate (a red salt), we can remove organic stains without destroying the most delicate surface of porcelain or glass. All that is necessary is to moisten the stains with the acid, then scatter the finely-powdered bichromate upon them and let the vessel stand in a warm place for ten or twelve hours. The stains will then disappear, after washing.

Oh, Go to Bed

"DAD, what's a steeplejack? Is it a toy like the jumping-jack?"

"No, son, a steeplejack is a man who works on steeples or other tall buildings."

"Are there any steeplejills?"

"Not that I ever heard of. Why should there be?"

"So the steeplejacks can get married."

"Oh, go to bed."

Children's Clothes

IF LITTLE Lord Fauntleroy, with his golden curls and velvet suit, should appear on a city street, one of these days, I fear he would be mobbed. At all events, life would be made intolerable for him.

But, never fear, the boy of to-day would never appear in public, in such garb. Our boys insist that their clothes be neither sissyfied nor babyish. And our girls, too, balk at wearing clothes that are too "dressy," in others words, that are in any way conspicuous.

The worst crime the children can commit, as far as their clothes are concerned, is to be "different." At all costs they must wear exactly the same clothes as all the other members of their group, or they feel very self conscious and uncomfortable. When short hair is the vogue for girls, short hair they must have. Boys insist that blue shirts are out of the question when this color is not "being worn," but when blue shirts are the style they simply must have them. This intense desire for conformity will be outgrown as the children mature. But we must respect it while they are small. Only through being garbed just like their fellows will our youngsters escape the cruel teasing that children visit so unsparingly on one another.

There are several practical matters we have also to consider when purchasing clothing for our young ones. First of all, their playclothes should not soil too easily. Many a child's life has been made burdensome by having constantly to take care "not to dirty his clothes." Then, too, playclothes should be of durable material, so that the children do not have to worry overmuch about tearing them. We must be watchful also that their clothing is comfortable, especially that it isn't too tight, thus restricting their movements.

Clothing for little children ought to be so made that it can be easily put on and taken off. Being able to dress and undress themselves gives the little tots a feeling of self confidence and independence; and it is a great aid to a busy mother. Therefore, this clothing should have as few buttons as possible, the buttons should be large, and whenever feasible in front.

Shoes are also an important item, as those poor adults who have foot ailments will attest. We should be very careful that our children wear shoes that fit properly. For the little ones laced shoes are the best.

Children should be able to express individuality through their clothes, just as much as possible. We should allow them as much choice as our good judgment and pocketbooks permit.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

BRAZIL REBELS VICTORIOUS IN BATTLE

that section of the country alone with gains on central and southern fronts.

FEDERALS MOVE TO BATTLE REBELS

Copyright 1930

RIO DE JANEIRO.—A military and naval offensive by federal forces in the vicinity of Floranopolis, capital of Santa Catherina state was announced in a proclamation by federal authorities there today.

The rebellion simmered on widely separated fronts, with the federal mobilization of 420,000 men proceeding throughout the country.

Rebel claims of victory at Pernambuco, 1200 miles to the north, were generally understood to have been substantiated by developments.

The claims lacked confirmation in official quarters in this city, but the report was generally accepted.

The rebels claimed capture of both Pernambuco and Natal. Natal, capital of the State of Rio Grande Do Norte, is a city of about 35,000, also an important port of call for steamships on all major shipping lines. It is about 160 miles north of Pernambuco.

Official confirmation of these claims was lacking, but despite lack of communications to the north, the Pernambuo claims were generally admitted in the capital.

Rio De Janeiro remained quiet, martial law prevailing. The banks and schools were closed, and a tense atmosphere obtained, but there was little outwardly to indicate the capital was at war with a comparatively large section of the country and that thousands of men were being called to arms.

Navy Loyal

Federal dispatches from Para (Belem) gave assurances that the federal naval forces as well as the police remained loyal.

The Para advices declared the rebel troops had been routed in fighting at that city, and had torn up railway tracks as t hey fled southward.

Former rresident Arthur Bernardes, charged with being a rebel was reported arrested at Capaca college, in the town of Marianna Minas Geraes state, just west of Rio De Janeiro. The former persident was declared taken into custoday by the 10th infantry battalion, and held on charges of rebel sympathies.

Profiteer Held

The federal food control bureau in Rio De Janeiro, established as a war-time measure, announced a fine from 200 milreis to 50 cantos about $24 to $5000— and 30 days imprisonment for infractions of the food regulations, designed to prevent exploitation of food stocks.

The export of foodstuffs was prohibited except in cases of oversupply. One exploiter already has been arrested.

Mrs. MacIntosh Reported Better

According to a wire received in Richmond yesterday, Mrs. J. T. MacIntosh, who is critically ill in a McCloud hospital, is showing some improvement. Members of her family from Richmond are at her bedside.

A Way To Stop Attacks Of Fits

Reports are received of an amazing treatment that epileptics state has proved successful in stopping their attacks. R. Lepso, Apt. 64, Island Ave, Milwaukee, Wisc, has been supplying sufferers with this treatment. He now wishes to reach all those who have not been helped and to do so is making the startling offer of a generous treatment free to all sufferers. New Secrets

THE DEEPEST secrets of the internal structure of metals are being revealed by a new x-ray machine in Washington. Raymond G. Kennedy is photographed with the machine.

Slump End Seen By Merchants

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—UP—Marshall Field and company, one of America's largest merchandise purveyors, believes that the end of the business depression is in sight, said a statement issued by Vice President Frederick D. Corley today.

Sentiment in the merchandising business generally has improved sharply during the last 30 days, continued the statement, based on the company annual $175,000,000 trade and upon Corley's 25 years of experience covering many similar situations.

Mexican Official Resigns Post

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8.—UP—Registration of Luis Leon, secretary of industry, commerce and labor was announced tonight by the government.

Leon's letter of resignation, sent to the secretary of interior as head of the cabinet set forth no specific reason for his action, merely requesting that President Ortiz Rubio be informed of the resignation because of "reasons expressed in my conversation with the president today."

Texas Guinan's Club Hit By Fire

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—UP—Texas Guinan, fond of saying that things get pretty hot in her new night club, the Argonaut, was righter than she knew.

Fire swept through the club today, a few hours after the hostess and the last of her 'suckers" had called it a morning and closed.

Daughter's Plea Ends In Death

PRINCETON, Ind.—A daughter's plea to her mother to drive the auto "fast down the hill" ended in the death of the child and injury to the parent, Mrs. Cora Watkins, Princeton. Mrs. Watkins lost control of the car and it was wrecked. The daughter, Dorothy, 13, suffered a fractured skull and abdominal injuries which proved fatal.

A WANT AD IN THE RECORD-HERALD WILL DO THE WORK

San Joaquin Pioneers Had Huge Thirst

FRESNO.—A thirst was a thirst in the "good old days" of the '90's, and not to be thwarted by such obstacles as railroad strikes according to W. Parker Lyon, now a retired Pasadena capitalist, but Fresno's mayor of 36 years ago.

Lyon while reminiscing here told of the exploit of himself and some county officials in relieving the thirst of the several thousand Fresnans of that era.

When the beer had been exhausted down to the last barrel Lyon organized a crew and stole a railroad engine and a couple of cars. Let him tell the story:

"A railroad strike had stopped rail transportation so that not a train had been in or out of Fresno for two weeks. It was a hot July day and the last keg of beer in town was rapidly disappearing down the throats of the crowd at Ed Swartz, Palm Gardon saloon.

"The only practical suggestion advanced after much discussion was to take a train out of Fresno in search of beer. I was delegated to the job.

"I went to the courthouse and borrowed the engineer, who said he could run an engine. Then I persuaded Parker Timmins of the sheriff's office to go along and fire the engine.

"With Bill Shaw, a constable, as brakeman, we boarded one of the wood burning locomotives of those days.

"I pulled off a few boards from Kutner's warehouse and we soon had a fire under the boiler. Kutner's watchman did not hinder us when he learned what we were after.

"We knew we had a clear track, as even the mail trains were out of commission. With a caboose and freight car hocked on, we started up the line.

"It was a hectic ride. When we ran out of wood we tore off fence boards and even burned the mattresses and desk of the caboose.

"At Stockton we loaded out beer while thousands of Stockton people cheered while we worked.

"The run home was wonderful, what with unlimited beer and the thermometer registering about 147 degrees."

YULE SEAL SALE STARTS

Mrs. R. G. Lee, chairman of the Christmas seal sales for Richmond and El Cerrito, yesterday morning received fifty packages of Christmas seals containing 500,000 seals.

The money derived from sale of the seals will aid the Sunshine camp at Marsh Creek, maintained for tubercular and undernourished children in this county. There are at present 20 children in the camp which is directed by Miss Nora Healy of Richmond. The sale of seals last year brought $1432 in Richmond.

Mrs. Lee has asked for volunteer help in addressing 5000 envelopes in which the letters and seals will be mailed. These seals will be mailed the day after Thanksgiving. It is not necessary, according to Mrs. Lee, that the dollar be sent before Christmas.

Durant Company Victor In Suit

OAKLAND, Oct. 8.—UP—A directed verdict in favor of the Durant Motor company of California, defendant in an action brought by W. A. Stewart, who claimed to be a minority stockholder and charged that the company paid too much money for the Star Motor company of California in 1925, was ordered by Superior Judge John D. Murphy, here late today and was immediately complied with by the jury.

Judge Murphy said there was no evidence to show wrong doing on the part of the defendants, Norman DeVaux, president and general manager of the Durant company and directors of the firm, including R. C. Durant.

Boy Tells Of Shooting Chum

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 8.—UP—Eleven year old Raymond Creasy, confessed to District Attorney Guy Gordon here today that he fired the fatal shot that killed Melvin McCann, 10-year-old school boy at Camas Valley, 18 miles west of here Tuesday.

POLITE BANDITS ROB PRESIDENT OF BANK

MAZON, Ill., Oct. 8.—UP— Four polite young bandits kept a bank president and his family captive all night, then forced the banker to open his institution at dawn today and give them $13,000.

Gardie Clapp, president of the Mazon First National bank, said the robbers were not satisfied with his merely giving them the cash. They forced him to wrap it in a bundle.

Appearing at the banker's home last night, the bandits put Mrs. Clapp and a 17-year old son under guard. A neighbor, Mrs. Mildred Stroull, and Clapp also were "detained," as the youngest bandit expressed it, when they entered the house.

Throughout the night the captives were allowed to sleep and refresh themselves with food from the kitchen. At dawn, two of the bandits, remarking that the vault time locks would be off, took Clapp to the bank.

He was ordered to turn off the burglar alarm, fill two suitcases with currency and carry the bags to the bandits' automobile. Clapp was returned to his home where the bandits seated their captives in a circle, bound them with clothes line and sealed their mouths with adhesive tape, apologizing several times for the "inconvenience."

Clapp freed himself, reported the robbery to police and a warning was broadcast to Illinois and Wisconsin authorities.

Old Prospector Dies At Claim

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—UP—Franch Charlie, who spent many of his 69 years in a futile search for gold, died today on an abandoned mining claim "with his boots on" and his lifelong hope never fulfilled.

French Charlie's body was found by forest rangers in the hills north of Palmdale. He had gone out yesterday to do a little prospecting. The rangers became worried when the old and feeble man did not return. He had with him only a canteen of water and a few matches. The cause of death was not known. French Charlie's legal name was believed to be John Carter.
